Little learners

"Education led by teachers, examinations and grades can produce excellent students, but not necessarily great learners. Great learners are driven by internal motivation, from giving students appropriate autonomy, responsibility and opportunities for collaboration." Such is the basis of the Dalton Plan, one of the world's most successful child-centred models. Newly launched Little Dalton is a local bilingual Putonghua and English kindergarten guided by the Dalton Plan and modelled after renowned New York prep school The Dalton School. Visit www.littledalton.com for information about kindergarten classes and after-school activities.

Creative classes

The Little Picasso Studio in Ap Lei Chau offers art classes for children and adults in a sunny studio. Their talented team will spark artistic and creative abilities whilst fostering independent thinking in a learning environment. The studio has free parking and a comfortable tea area with free wi-fi, so mummies can relax during kids' classes or scoot off to nearby Horizon Plaza to shop. Learn more about their weekly classes, art parties and workshops at www.littlepicasso.hk.

Purple power

March is Epilepsy Awareness Month in Hong Kong and the perfect time to show your support for promoting awareness and knowledge of this condition. Epilepsy is a common neurological (brain) disorder and affects people in every country throughout the world. The condition encompasses a range of functional disorders of the brain, the common characteristic of which is a series of repetitive seizures. In Hong Kong, around 60,000 to 70,000 people have epilepsy, and yet it remains largely misunderstood here. Enlighten Action for Epilepsy aims to change that by raising the level of awareness and education about the condition. You can support their efforts by joining in their "Paint the town purple" campaign throughout the month of March. Learn more at www.enlightenhk.org.
